PEX-B PIPE

Tubing is manufactured using the irradiation method of cross-linking. The Irradiation method the pipe is extruded first and then sent through an accelerator to complete the cross-linking process. The Irradiation method provides more precise control over the degree, consistency and uniformity of cross-linking. This means the tubing is evenly cross-linked, with no weak links within its molecular chains.

PEX-B PIPES CAN BE USED WITH THE
FOLLOWING ASTM FITTINGS SYSTEMS:
F2159, F1807, F1960 AND F2080
